LOVE PROVIDES YOUR CELESTIAL MAP

Christ Jesus through Virginia Essene

Celestial blessings to you in the Love Corps and to all people of good will everywhere,

In the busyness of your life, kindly let yourself take these moments of sacred connection while you allow me to enter your earthly reality from higher realms to share both inspirational and informative energy with your heart, soul and mind. In these precious occasions there is a mutual joy and blessing for us both as we acknowledge the awesome Creator of our existence and join energies to make your world a greater reflection of that omnipotent one's superlative wisdom and unconditional love. For here by your willingness to remember your connection with our Mother/Father you are "born again" or born anew to your creative nature and the potential of humanity's spiritual expression.

Then drink in the gold and silver radiance of our enriching merger and feel the peace you need during these days of fleeting, vanishing time. Yes, acknowledge this historical event when your body needs to be honored and comforted for the challenging experience it must endure as you move from a carbon based existence to the less physically dense realm of silicon - and the greater communication level it allows.

As I have frequently commented, each of you is a physical receptacle for the divine but your receiver must be adjusted or attuned to the Creator frequency for spiritual or celestial communication. This is because your linear time, or the vibratory frequency you have experienced thus far in this life, is presently changing so quickly that most of you are struggling to maintain good health and peace of mind. Each of you reading that last sentence has your own personal stories of how this vanishing time has affected your life, and more importantly, how you are dedicating your intention to stay grounded and balanced even as you move into this new space and time reality.

Kindly remember that since both your DNA and your cellular identity are being redefined energetically and physically, you must evolve with this shifting frequency level that demands you use it to achieve this unique transformative experience for humans - and all living things here on Earth. Remember also that you are part of an immense cyclical change that affects other places in your solar system and local galaxy which even your most advanced scientists and their instruments cannot understand. Indeed, even the wisest have only an inkling of what happens in the farther reaches of the universe.

I mean no disrespect by this comment because with your present impoverished brain and the body's 5 physical senses, you cannot be expected to see or even to truly grasp what the teeming cauldron of creation is about, or what it does. But you are changing, learning, and when you possess a more peaceful heart much information will come to answer your longing to know what life really is. You will be trusted, finally, to replace that limiting ignorance with a creative celestial wisdom based on love.

Many times I have briefly described the light wave energies from the galaxy's matrix, and I especially explained a year ago how to use these current galactic energies to your own advantage and good health. In this endeavor I am joined by many celestial beings whose paramount desire is to help you understand and cooperate with your new relationship to time and space. Our many separate messages are intended to reinforce your understanding of humanity's evolution and give you a deep trust in the divine process involved. Various messages will continue to come more frequently from a variety of sources. Your primary concern is to feel the messages with your heart and only trust those that touch your soul's inner knowing.

Indeed, when last we spoke together about holy nurturance - or that pure caring energy all humans urgently need during the current input of multi-faceted cosmic frequencies, celestial rays, and divine stimulation - I asked you to take note of how you spend your daily supply of time/energy. So I come to you today and ask if you have done this evaluation or analysis for yourself. Did you take my remarks seriously and evaluate ways you can honor your body's needs? Or is something yet to be done on your own behalf?

This request for you to notice how your body feels while it is being transformed by solar flares, photons and celestial light waves is not casually requested and so I come to you again and ask whether you are compassionate about your body's DNA and cellular needs? I ask whether you are proving your concern for your physical health by thoughtful, caring actions toward this human body - a body literally being evolved out of the denser world dimensions for a more elevated energy destination.

Because this is a cyclical process, beloveds, it is rather like a ride at an amusement park; once you start the ride, it must be finished or injury could result. Once aboard the ride, you are not in charge of anything except your reactions while in it...and thereafter. That is why we come to you during these cyclical changes and encourage you to understand what is happening so you can experience the shift with as much joy, peace and love as possible. We want you to understand and enjoy this grand celestial experience with courage and anticipation even amidst the many challenges.

Put very simply, as I repeatedly share, your physical life is gradually transmuting. You are emerging from the dark recesses of the lonely caterpillar cocoon to take flight with the wings of an unfolding rainbow butterfly. You are leaving the lightless night and witnessing the first rays of a new sunrise.

To those more intellectual among you, let me be more prosaic. Just as the gears of an automobile have different strengths and purposes that can be quickly shifted to go uphill, hurry along a freeway, completely stop when directed, or even go backwards when necessary...so does each human have gears or speeds of energy to meet the various demands of the moment. Like a pilot in an airplane who must understand the vehicle and its various instruments in order to fly ... or a TV user with its many programs for viewing, you are in charge of choosing the best possible topics for your spiritual journey.

Since you have learned you must take of cars, planes, and technical equipment, you must now view your body as the beloved creation of our Mother/Father's design which also requires even more serious attention, respect and care since it is a living organism, not a machine. SINCE TIME IS NOT A LINEAR EVENT BUT A CONSTANT AND INSTANTANEOUS FLOWING OF CREATIVELY CHARGED COSMIC PARTICLES, which I explained in our last issue, you exist as a human being granted free will to make whatever use of these cosmic particles you wish, hopefully at the highest level of your consciousness.

We naturally urge you to use that free will decision to take good care of your body because of its current stress caused mostly by this recent cosmic shift. If you do not attend to your bodily needs then it is harder to create a healthy reality using your focused intention/thought and your desire/feeling to accomplish your intention/desire - a concept worth repeating many times.

As this cyclical shift accelerates, it becomes increasingly necessary to have strong bodily health to endure an extraordinary change like this. Indeed, your emotional responses to these incoming energy influences are what we desire to help you balance so that a joyful and constructive life can be maintained even during the dramatic moments these enormous shifts require. Though challenging, these reality shifts based on your choices bring you ever closer to a higher state of consciousness and existence for which you have soulfully prayed, and which we continue to support and inspire. Believe this, dear hearts, and it will stand you in good stead.

In your physical life, many of you are used to taking journeys with the aid of various maps. However, today there are no physical maps of the consciousness fields that you can see on a piece of paper - no way for your eyes to establish the correct route. Rather, that map is inside you, perhaps locked in a secret vault that now needs to be opened. The map contains ingredients called love and compassion that represent a recipe for attaining higher dimensions. It will speak to you if you listen with your intuition and heart, but your left brain may want evidence you cannot provide. Trust comes from the heart and your intuition, of course, and is essential in these evolutionary times

Because this is a kind of unmapped, unknown energy territory you enter, and love is your passport, various angels and teachers like me are here to describe those celestial maps or regions you cannot yet see and trust. We come to give you enough information to strengthen your desire for the journey and then help you utilize the power of your love and inner peace that is the elevator waiting to gradually raise you from this dimension to those still unfamiliar, yet unmapped realms. Many eastern religions describe these realms in words and you have illustrations of the energy fields around your body that help you comprehend a greater spiritual world exists, yet it is you who must add your love, faith and persistence for the journey.

Many years ago in the New Teachings for an Awakening Humanity book I shared these words that have not diminished, only increased in validity.

“Love is wholeness in which God’s power can flow through the cleansed human personality and manifest itself in the everyday world as peace, as light, and as joy.

...The only true, safe power is of God. When you invite this into your life, you will discover the security for which you have longed and the power will be given you to do the desire of a loving soul. God’s power through you as a channel of light and peace is the greatest experience possible for a human being. With this pure motive your life will become a heavenly balance of love and wisdom – the hallmark intended for your species. Give thanks that this is the truth and let your gratitude be expressed in a joyful heart and a contented soul.” ...

Yes, love is the wholeness available within your own inner soul and holds the celestial map for arriving at a new reality. Every time you increase that loving consciousness it will help you release the tension and strain of transforming your inner and outer reality, of expanding your definition of time and space.

Having said this, I must once again exhort you to notice how you are living and to sort out all non-essential activities that do not allow for proper sleep, good nutrition, and joyful life experiences in nature and with dear ones. You surely must realize that when you are bodily exhausted it is very difficult to listen to your heart and any important intuitive messages you may need to receive through your soul. In our last newsletter issue I gave some examples of how this inner listening that occurred during America’s 9/11 attack in New York City saved lives. So please, dear hearts, stay rested and do your best to have good physical health so your Creator-designed body can work properly and keep you safe and creative on a daily basis through contact with your soul’s knowledge and God’s flowing love.

It gives me no joy to again remind you that the Earth is also going through physical changes that affect all living things, including you. The newspapers, magazines and your TV’s give graphic proof of this evidence, yet many of you continue to ignore the potential danger and are not prepared. We of heaven take no satisfaction in warning you of the many climatic changes ahead and yet it is the loving thing to do. Still some of you refuse to evaluate your poor habits and to make the necessary changes and preparations for the simplest of daily supplies and needs such as water, food, and shelter. This lack of discipline has been the cause of many untimely deaths and unnecessary suffering not to mention regrets and even illogical anger at God for supposedly letting such things happen. Why live without sensible planning for your body’s needs – especially if you live in a dangerous region where weather patterns are inconstant?

Where you choose to be at any given moment is not God’s choice but yours. And unless you have opened your heart to listen to divine guidance and give credit with gratitude when the synchronicities and miracles happen, you will always feel frightened and insecure. It is well said that your thought-by-thought process is simply a choice between love and fear. Since fear is restrictive, harms the body and limits your ability to listen within, it is obviously not the wisest choice between the two emotional frequencies. Yet how to maintain the steady flow of divine love and peace is every man and woman's challenge, even as it was during my own days on Earth.

It is very important that you understand one thing. For those who do not listen to their conscience or their inner voice to help make wise life choices, life circumstances could be difficult. If someone drinks excessively or take drugs that interrupt proper brain activities, or if they are careless and injure themselves, it is not God's fault. The divine presence will never desert anyone even when they retain self-defeating attitudes and behaviors, and choose destructive habits in daily living. Yet many blame the Creator for creating their circumstances, their problems. And the most immature humans will use the excuse that they are always victims of negative life circumstances, not the creator of many of them.

Dear hearts, in the so-called Christian faith today there is an assumption by many people that they are powerless sinners and I am their savior. How can I share that I genuinely love and honor them and want the best possible circumstances in their life - and then add that I come again today to tell them they are also capable of becoming Christs?

Since many reject the possibility of my contacting them in their present reality at all it is difficult to share how creation works and explain how life is composed of vital energy frequencies that are available to help them accomplish their own salvation.

This idea of self-salvation is shocking news to the sincerely devoted people who truly adore me and plan to reach heaven by believing in me. They fail to understand that by worshipping me, rather than honoring the true Creator of us all, they are limiting their own greater nature. Yet many live exemplary lives based on what they believe I request of them and must not be faulted for their desire to lead a life of decency and kindness. IT IS MY FERVENT DESIRE FOR THEM TO RETAIN THEIR DEVOTION TO THE HIGHER PRINCIPLES I TAUGHT YET WILLINGLY LEARN TO ACCEPT AND EXPAND THEIR OWN INNER SOUL RESOURCES, AS WELL.

Your help in sharing this modern Christian understanding with others is always appreciated which is why last year I asked you to place the New Teachings book wherever you could and let your heart gift speak about such things to others. Several of you felt rebuffed by introducing the book to close friends and family whose minds were closed to the present good news I offer, which is why I suggested leaving them in public places where new eyes might find them. You will be pleased to learn that some of those books you shared have opened hearts hungry for the truth and so I greatly appreciate your willingness to be bold and even uncomfortable in demonstrating the courage that discipleship usually requires when serving the light.

Self-salvation is also a shocking concept to those persons who want to follow their own life rules that do not contain moral principles, for such a life causes great pain and suffering to themselves and others when they realize it and cannot resolve the problem by themselves. At such moments, people's pain may bring them to God through prayer, or they will mention my name, or someone else with supernatural powers - to extricate them from their dilemma. This may lead to what you call evaluation or confession.

Confession followed by the feeling of contrition can serve anyone a useful purpose when there has been a lack of love, of course, but without support to do the hard work of changing one's bad habits and false perceptions, it may not achieve the results we would wish. Acknowledging that one has erred does not automatically bring the discipline for changing those negative actions and habits though it is an essential step in the right direction.

This subject now brings me to the final comment I want to share with all of you today about confession - or noticing your unloving acts toward self and others. Are you satisfied with the way you feel about yourself as a loving person? Or are there people with whom you still have "unfinished business?" People who have offended or harmed you? Or whom you have harmed and offended?

I ask you now to take several deep breaths as you ponder your truthful and honest answer because it is the question all of you face sometime during earthly life. WHEN HAS LOVE BEEN LOST? With whom did you lose it? And what were the reasons as you remember them? IF NOTHING COMES TO MIND NOW, INVITE IT TO COME LATER THROUGH DREAMS, MEDITATIONS, OR EVEN IN CONVERSATIONS WITH FRIENDS OR HEALERS AND COUNSELORS. Then, of course, one must persevere to the conclusion of the situation. Is it healed? Is everyone free of pain now?

Are you free of pain and regret yourself? And what of the other or others involved in the situation? Are they also at peace with themselves? And with you? I am naturally concerned about you but I am an elder brother to all and so I am also concerned about them. Biblically speaking, I am still a shepherd to humanity.

Yes, beloveds, I came to Earth long ago as a spiritual healer and my mission has not been abandoned. That is why I ask you today to do a serious reflection on this important question of whether love has been lost in yourself and with others? And I further request that you notice what pattern of negative behavior brought you into this situation with someone in the first place. For if you do not recognize the pattern you were following, it is difficult to change it.

Humans often acquire serious negative habits in childhood that are difficult to release even when they wish they didn't have them as adults. The good news is that you can change and so can others. However, there must be willingness to look and learn. Yes, to change is usually hard work but with the incoming frequencies of the celestial cycles, there is enormous potential for change more quickly and powerfully than ever before. So if you wish to deliberately explore ways to safely release limiting patterns of behaviors that do not serve you, you may truly count on my help and the help of many angels, teachers and guides around you. Indeed, this is a propitious moment to create the higher consciousness you seek by releasing the barriers to your natural essence.

That is why I have asked Virginia to arrange for a new web site that will allow me to share both shorter printed messages in a timely way, when I wish to give them, and also spoken messages through her on the web radio as needed. She is exploring the idea of conference calls, also, at my request. During this time of potent spiritual energy frequencies I will sometimes want to give more immediate support for improving your self-awareness and attaining higher states of consciousness. To that end I ask you to be willing to extend your support for this change I am recommending and to do so with anticipation and excitement, if possible.

Please notice how you respond to my idea of having a more personal relationship with me in which humanity's needs are assessed and support is given to help you achieve the dreams of your soul. Beloveds, I believe we can establish a more personal relationship very soon if you are willing to step forward into a potentially enriching adventure.

A wise person once said that if you think changing someone else is difficult, you should try changing yourself. (Smile)

If you wish it, I would like to assist you in becoming the finest soul expression that you may choose to be and further enrich both yourself and that which I named the Love Corps about 20 years ago. The Love Corps is merely an energy name potentially calling each human to remember their essence and spiritual purpose while living in the dense emotional vibration here on Earth. Humans have always had the choice of love or fear. I have returned to remind you that you were born with wisdom and love and your love energy is more powerful than its opposite.

Then let us confirm in your heart and mind that with the intense energy frequencies for achieving higher consciousness now surrounding your solar system, and many others in the galaxy, this is a vital moment in human evolution. It is a time when changing old limitations can occur more rapidly. It is a time when science and spirit can partner in this evolutionary opportunity for the benefit of the planet herself, and for all living kingdoms existing upon her, including your human species. For this reason, innumerable teachers and mentors from every known spiritual lineage or religious background – both celestial and those living in physical bodies who want to help - are coming forward to help guide humanity. We and they – we and you – cooperate in supporting the wonderful consciousness changes that can occur within the fermenting chaos of physical life. All of us want to work together to help humanity return to its true identity by sharing and modeling the truth as we know it and hopefully accelerating your own ability to move forward in the divine light of your soul's purposes.

I have asked Virginia to accomplish whatever earthly matters are needed to make this support possible for you in the months ahead, and welcome you to a closer relationship with someone who has know and loved you long ago, and who loves you still. For I AM someone who believes in you and your part in the divine mission!

As I shower you with light, let us breathe in the sacred remembrance of our love for the Creator and one another, as we have done before and can choose to do throughout eternity. Join with me in the quietude of your heart, if you wish it, until we gather again in this more public way by words on paper or my verbal message through Virginia's assistance. You, too, may hear and speak with me – speak my message to others. All are needed and appreciated in this heavenly enterprise.

Until we meet again, I remain your elder brother who reminds you to remember our omnipotent Creator and to continue the unending adventure in celestial realms using your own soul's divine wisdom and love's most creative expression.
